Monthly Revenue and Profit

Profit Margin % by Month

Profit by Quarter

Key Insights

- Profit follows sales, not costs: Monthly profit tracks revenue almost perfectly, while margin stays between 57.6% and 58.2% every month.
- Demand is spiky: Monthly revenue ranges from $212K to $435K. Peaks: Oct 2020, Jun 2020, Dec 2020.
- Q4 2020 is the strongest quarter: $1.07M revenue and $622K profit.
- Growth: Sep–Dec 2020 revenue is 18.8% higher than the same months of 2019.
- Implication for 2026: stabilising sales in low months matters more than cutting costs.

Note: Q3 2019 includes September only.

Key Insights

- Chocolate Chip is the engine: 37% of total profit at a 60% margin. The top 3 products deliver 73% of profit.
- Volume is not profit: Fortune Cookie sells 154K units, about the same as Oatmeal Raisin (155K), but earns 5.6x less profit ($77K vs $435K) at the lowest margin (50%).
- Snickerdoodle has the highest margin (62.5%), while White Chocolate Macadamia earns the most per cookie ($3.25) at a lower margin (54.2%).
- Implication for 2026: protect and grow Chocolate Chip, push Snickerdoodle, and review the price or cost of Fortune Cookie.

Total			$2,717,064	700	$6,700	57.9%

Key Insights

- Concentration risk: ACME Bites alone is 27% of profit, and the top 3 customers deliver 67%.
- Seattle (WA) is the 3rd-largest market ($570K) through three smaller accounts, behind WI and NY.
- Cross-sell: manie and Despasito (margins above 59%) never ordered Sugar or White Chocolate Macadamia Nut.
- Order size: large orders (2,500+ units) are 17% of orders but 33% of profit; small orders (under 1,000 units) are 29% of orders but only 11% of profit.
- Implication for 2026: protect the top 3 accounts and grow product range and order size in the smaller ones.
